Specifically: The practice of nursing is the promotion of health and the assessment of, the provision of, care for, and the treatment of health conditions by a supportive, preventative, therapeutic, palliative and rehabilitative means in order to attain or maintain optimal function. The nurse shall follow the thirteen (13) controlled acts as stated by the College of Nurses of Ontario (Nursing Act 1991).
- Participate in the development, implementation, ongoing evaluation of a plan of care that reflects the Resident's and Caregiver's history, needs, goals, wishes and preferences.
- Assess, plan, implement and evaluate nursing care of residents according to evidence-based methods and best practices of hospice and palliative care.
- Routinely assess Resident's pain and symptoms to ensure comfort is maintained.
- Evaluate the Resident's and/or Caregiver's psychosocial and spiritual wellbeing a minimum of once a shift or more frequently as required.
- As determined by the transdisciplinary team, consult with Home and Community Care, community hospice and other stakeholders to ensure additional services required to meet the Resident's needs are provided.
- Utilize the Resident Record to carry out and maintain a current plan of care; communicate with the transdisciplinary team; document assessment outcomes; and record interactions with the Resident and/or Caregiver(s) that are pertinent to the plan of care.
- Administers medication and treatments where outcomes are stable and expected; and implements routine medical interventions as required or ordered.
- Notify and consult with the RN in charge regarding significant changes in the Resident's status and/or needs.
- Provides support and leadership to the interdisciplinary care team including, but not limited to, PSWs, and volunteers.
- Participate in transdisciplinary meetings, rounds, family conferences and committees as requested or required.
- Complete accurate, timely, and complete documentation of resident care including, but not limited to, clinical and psychosocial observations, resident and family teaching, and evaluation of nursing care.

- Have the physical ability to perform the duties of the position. Which include regularly: standing, walking, reaching with hands and arms, stooping, kneeling, crouching, pushing and pulling.
